REFUSES 3D TERM.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—President McKinley has decided not to be a candidate for a third term.

The following statement has been given out at the White House:

"I regret that the suggestion of a third term has been made. I doubt whether I am called upon to give it notice. But there are now questions of the gravest importance before the Administration and the country and their just consideration should not be prejudiced in the public mind by even the suspicion of the thought of a third term.

"In view therefore of the reiteration of the suggestion of it, I will say now, once for all, expressing a long and settled conviction, that I not only am not and will not be a candidate for a third term, but would not accept a nomination for it if it were tendered me.

"My only ambition is to serve through my second term to the acceptance of my countrymen, whose generous confidence I so deeply appreciate, and then with them to do my duty in the ranks of private citizenship. WILLIAM MCKINLEY.

"Executive Mansion, Washington, June 10, 1901."

President McKinley's official announcement disposing of the third-term idea suggested by some of his admirers created no great surprise among his friends, who have known of his deep convictions on the subject.

When Senator Depew's suggestion ten days ago that the President should be re-elected for a third term began to be seriously discussed, the President decided that the public mind should be instantly cleared of even the suspicion that he was seeking to break down the precedents of the past by becoming a candidate for another term.

He broached the subject to Secretary Long late yesterday afternoon. He told him he believed that an announcement at the very inception of the discussion would be wise, and last night officially informed the members of the Cabinet, who had been informally called together, of his decision. It met with hearty approval.

The suggestion that President McKinley should be elected for a third term was first made several weeks ago.

Since then it has been given wide promulgation by Senator Chauncey M. Depew and other Republican leaders.

The President's official announcement to-day will ease the minds of many ambitious Republicans who have Presidential aspirations, notably Senator Fairbanks of Indiana; Senator Foraker of Ohio, and Vice-President Theodore Roosevelt.

RICH BANK ROBBER

The son of a millionaire was captured to-day after a daring attempt to rob the messenger of a Bronx bank.

Louis Hays is the prisoner. He is a son of Simon Hays, one of the richest and best-known men in Harlem. George F. Mellert, sixty-five years old, stout and feeble, was the victim of young Hays's outbreak. Mellert is the messenger of the Bronx Borough Bank at One Hundred and Seventy-seventh street and Third avenue. This bank is not a member of the Clearing-House and the old man has been carrying large quantities of its money through the streets of Harlem for years. He never carried a revolver and made no effort to conceal his business.

He had just secured $100 in silver and $2,000 in bills from the Hamilton Bank at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, at 11:30 this morning. The bills he put in his inside coat pocket. The silver he carried in a canvas bag in his hand. He entered the Twelfth Ward Bank at Lexington avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, and turned over his checks for collection.

While the teller was counting up the checks the old man walked out into the hall and started upstairs to transact some business. The foot of the stairway is directly opposite the entrance to the bank, which is in the hallway. Six steps up there is a turn.

Just as Mellert reached the turn he was confronted by a handsome, well-dressed young fellow, who stepped out of the shadow and barred his way. The young man was pale and in his hand he carried a heavy file wrapped in a newspaper. Raising this aloft he brought it down on Mellert's head.

The highwayman made a grab for it and the two struggled on the stairway. The bag was torn and the silver rolled down the stairs, making a great noise.

They rolled down the steps into the hall. By this time the officials of the bank had been aroused. They locked the doors to keep the crowd out and the thief in, and the cashier pulled the burglar alarm.

Capt. Walsh, of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street station, was in the station house when the alarm was rung. He started Detective Carter, Boltz and Connor to the bank on the double quick. When they arrived the highwayman had been subdued. He was the coolest man in the building.

At the station-house he said that there had been a mistake, but he could not account for his presence in the building. He described himself as Louis Hays and his father as Simon Hays, of No. 11 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. My brother-in-law is Julius Meyer, the Democratic politician. I want you to take word to my father and my brother-in-law that I am in trouble and he would make no statement.

An Evening World reporter was allowed to see the prisoner shortly after his arrest.

"See here," whispered the supposed Adams, "I lied when I told the police my name was Adams. My name is Louis Hays and my father is Simon Hays, of No. 11 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. My brother-in-law is Julius Meyer, the Democratic politician. I want you to take word to my father and my brother-in-law that I am in trouble and he would make no statement."

Hays is married and lives with his wife and two children in One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, near Eighth avenue. His family cannot account for his act. He was held in the Harlem Court, this afternoon, but would say nothing.

The police think Hays was a tool for a gang of thieves, who had carefully planned the robbery.

JONES NOW DYING.

"Let Charles F. Jones, who confessed that he killed Millionaire Rice at the instigation of Lawyer Albert T. Patrick, is dying.

"He takes no solid nourishment. He is haggard and thin. His face is like a dead man's. It is drawn and pinched. The shadow of the grave is stamped on every feature.

"For four weeks he has not left his room. The District-Attorney has been trying to remove him to the country with the hope that fresh air will revive him, but his condition is so serious that the physician in attendance will not permit this. "I should not be surprised if he were taken out a corpse any day."

This was the startling state of affairs made known to a reporter of the Evening World to-day by Mrs. Dickinson, who has charge of the private sanitarium of Dr. McAllister, of No. 300 West Forty-fourth street.

On the other hand the District-Attorney's office denies that Jones is in a serious condition. "It is true," said Assistant District-Attorney Garvan to the reporter, "that Jones has catarrh of the stomach and he is being treated for it.

"Aside from a humanitarian standpoint the District-Attorney's office is very anxious to keep Jones alive. Of course we have his confession, but that would not have the effect that his appearance in court would. They can cross-examine him all they like. They cannot break his testimony."

Jones occupies the middle room on the third floor at Dr. McAllister's house. He is guarded night and day by three detectives, each of whom is on duty eight hours at a time. They never leave him. He is a great sufferer from melancholia and it is feared he will commit suicide if left to himself.

"When he came here," said Mrs. Dickinson, "he could hardly get up the front steps. Since then he has been constantly growing worse."

"All his food is prepared here in the house. I know for a positive fact that he takes no solid food whatever. He has not left the house for a minute and gets no exercise."

"One need only look at his face to see his bad mental condition. No one but the detectives is allowed to see him. The District-Attorney has issued strict orders in regard to that. The detectives are also warned to talk with no one about the case. They will see nobody."

MONEY WAITS FOR BRENTANO

Paid $100,000 After Disappearance.

It is eighteen months ago. If Andrew Brentano, up to eighteen months ago of Brooklyn, should happen to need the money he may take this as notice that there is $100,000 for him in the custody of his brother, Joseph P. Brentano, of No. 18 North Sixth street, Williamsburg.

This is part of the estate of Andrew's mother, Andrew disappeared early in 1897, and Joseph, as executor of the estate, is getting tired of holding the money.

He has issued a statement to the effect that he knows nothing of the peace negotiations alleged to be proceeding with the Boer leaders.

He says that if there are any negotiations on foot it is not through any action of his.

League as one of Rube's pipe dreams. Loftus says that after every game Waddell loses, he pours a tale into some newspaper man's ear and gets sympathy in return. Hanlon says Ban Johnson would not hear of such a move, as the American League will not take players who are under National League contract. The fact that Ban Johnson was the guest of John T. Brush, at Cincinnati yesterday, is looked upon as significant and tends to stamp the rumors of wholesale jumping of contracts as a pipe dream.

Will Not Suspend Sheekard.

Nobody expects Nick Young to suspend Jimmy Sheekard for his roachy conduct against Cunningham at Cincinnati. Brush is reported to have demanded such action, but Hanlon says there is no reason why the League should pick one of its players as a mark when a lot of others have got away with rowdiness equally as bad.

Gatins was back at third to-day. Hanlon declining to put the regular men in so that Keeler could get back to right field, which has not been played up to the mark by Lefty Davis.

The mercury is working overtime to-day and it is hot-hot-hot for the fans to come out and enthusiasm, only about four hundred of them being present. The shirt-sleeve man was out in force.

First Inning.

Keeler beat out a hint to Menefee. Keeler singled. Sheekard singled and Kelley scored. Sheekard stole second. Hanlon fanned. Dahlen out on Menefee's assist. One run.

Hartzel flied to Dahlen. Green fanned. Gatins out. Dahlen to Kelley. No runs.

EXPOSITION PARK, PITTSBURG, June 11.—It's up to Christy Mathewson to keep the Giants in fairly comfortable position at the top of the percentage column. The star drawing part of the League will take his second crack at Fred Clarke's piratical troupe this afternoon. Matty held the Smoketown sluggers to six hits and one run, winning his game at the Polo Grounds. He is confident that he can do as well here. The young twirling phenomenon has not lost any confidence in his ability to beat all comers. His reverses at St.

Have a "High Ball!"

A Fancy Catch.

Louis and Cincinnati have apparently made no more impression on him than his long string of consecutive victories did. He is the same quiet, cool, self-poised young athlete who won eight games in a row earlier in the season without getting even a touch of the "swelled head," and he expresses himself now just as he did then.

"I know I'm bound to get my bumps a few times before the season is over," he says, "but I do know that I can pitch well enough to win most of my games."

Tottering in First Place.

If the Giants are beaten to-day they will hold first place by the narrowest of margins. They will have a lead of but one point over the Pirates in the percentage table and they will have to bag to-morrow's game or leave this city of sin, in second or possibly third place, for the Cincinnati Reds are within halting distance.

If Pittsburg wins to-day, the percentage

She was using a bottle of benzine when it caught fire and exploded. The burning fluid scattered over her face, head and arms.

Dr. Rupert Folger dressed her injuries and she was sent to Flushing Hospital.
